who recently stooped to counterfeiting pennies should make this a branch of their work. The bullion value of $1 in subsidiary rilver coin is only seventy-seven cents, and a 23 per cent margin of profit makes quite an inducement to counterfeiters. It is believed that most of the metal used is from remelted trade dollars. By the purchase of these in large quantities counterfeiters obtain the metal already mixed at just standard alloy. To illustrate the profit in the operation, 100 trade dollars, purchased for eighty-four cents each, the present market price, will yield 217 standard half dollars, making a profit of $24.50, less the small cost of recoinage.
